1/ The government's lead attorney prosecuted @EithanHaim while unlicensed—a direct violation of ethical and professional rules. This only came to light when the defense discovered and pointed it out. Typical of the bungling, illicit, twitching pile of catastrophe that is this

2/ The court challenges the government for sloppy drafting:

“[W]ell, it's obvious that the government didn't proofread or review the superseding indictment to prevent these errors.”

“Well, who ‘s proofreading? All of you?”

everything goes haywire on the date because the government disclosed the existence of additional discovery from Texas Children's Hospital on September 13th, 2024. This discovery was given to Haim one month -- one month before the initial trial date. That's why we had to kick it down the road a bit and why it's set, I think, for early in December.

So the first question I have for you, okay -- well, it's obvious that the government didn't proofread or review the superseding indictment to prevent these errors, but are you going to file another superseding indictment or what?

MS. ANSARI: No, Your Honor --

THE COURT: Then how are you going to go ahead with the word "use" when it's not in the statute?

MS. ANSARI: Your Honor, we --

THE COURT: How do you get around that?

MS. ANSARI: Yes. We agreed to strike that language in our response.

THE COURT: You tell me.

MS. ANSARI: Yes. So we are happy to strike the word "use," Your Honor.

THE COURT: So how are you -- how are you going to -- what are you going to plead? Where's the key language?

MS. ANSARI: It changed, Your Honor, eventually, it changed. It's a typo, Your Honor, citation error. Until it misleads the defendant --

THE COURT: Well, who's proofreading? All of you? All three folks?

MS. ANSARI: We apologize, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well --

MS. ANSARI: You can blame it on me, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'm not --

MS. ANSARI: I will take the blame.

THE COURT: -- blaming. It's in a major case re go to trial, and it's still incorrect.

MS. ANSARI: Your Honor, I will take the blame o that. They are excellent --

THE COURT: So how do you handle that? Is it up the judge, also, to make that change?

3/ Even worse and indeed fatal to their case, their superseding indictment is riddled with nonexistent statutes alleging crimes that don't exist. How does this happen in a case of this magnitude?

9 So the first question I have for you, okay -- well,
10 it's obvious that the government didn't proofread or review the 11 superseding indictment to prevent these errors, but are you
12 going to file another superseding indictment or what?
13 MS. ANSARI: No, Your Honor --
14 THE COURT: Then how are you going to go ahead with 15 the word "use" when it's not in the statute?
16 MS. ANSARI: Your Honor, we --
17 THE COURT: How do you get around that?
18 MS. ANSARI: Yes. We agreed to strike that language
19 in our response.
20 THE COURT: You tell me.
21 MS. ANSARI: Yes. So we are happy to strike the word
22 "use," Your Honor.
23 THE COURT: So how are you -- how are you going to --
24 what are you going to plead? Where's the key language?
25 MS. ANSARI: The key language that's in the statute,

4/ Prosecutors try to manufacture a new crime by adding the word "use" to the charges.

Per the court, "Okay. Let me ask you this: How come you [sic] took "wrongfully discloses" from the first indictment, and all of a sudden now you're using "use," and you want me to strike it?"

5/ The judge scolds the prosecution for dumping new, key evidence from Texas Children's Hospital just one month before trial. This forced delays, and punished the defense of @EithanHaim for the government's failure to share evidence in a timely manner. So much for a fair and Show more

6/ Prosecutors ignored case law precedent entirely throughout their argument, opting to define key language however they please and without citing precedent. The judge repeatedly asked for case law; they had none, revealing the emperor has no clothes.

5 MS. ANSARI: Your Honor, it is -- we're just agreeing
6 that we don't need it. It's and/or use.
7 THE COURT: Okay. I believe -- we'll hear from the 8 defense on this point, but -- so you're saying, what, it's just 9 minor points?
10 MS. ANSARI: Yes, Your Honor.
11 THE COURT: All right. What's your best case on it?
12 We've done research on that.
13 (Sotto voce discussion between Ms. Ansari and 14 Ms. Feinstein.)
15 MS. ANSARI: I can get back to you on the best case,
16 Your Honor. I'm not -- on what issue, on taking out "use"?

7/ When we argued that HIPAA's Privacy Rule cannot create a felony, as Congress never incorporated it into the criminal statute, the prosecutors refused to respond, effectively conceding the point. I again emphasize that these are AUSAs, supposedly be the best of the best.

MR. PATRICK: And they have decided, expressing our constitutional concerns of, they've misquoted the privacy rule to there, on its face, there is no crime, striking to strike that, and you allow the privacy Act, and HHS also, when it has challenged the privacy rule on Congress has gone back to HIPPA	THE COURT: Yeah. MR. HALL: -- but it is very clear, so Congress itself, when it's referred to there, on its face, there is no crime, has noted that as a separate section, has recognized that there's two statutes that on the one hand they have the statute that we think of as HIPPA that's been a separate provision that give them the regulations, but that was never incorporated into civil --
THE COURT: Is that the 25-pager?
MR. PATRICK: Yes, sir.

MS. ANSARI: Yes. So if we can go to Counts 2 t indictment, if we just strike the word "and/or us

"did obtain."

THE COURT: So what are you going to do? Are yo you just strike the -- a superseding indictment, c uage?

MS. ANSARI: We would like to then ask the Court

o strike the language.

THE COURT: That's denied.

MS. ANSARI: All right, Your Honor. Then we wou

just --

THE COURT: What?

11/ Sloppy indictments, last-minute evidence dumps, and constitutional evasion: this case is the poster child for prosecutorial overreach.

@EithanHaim trial isn't about justice—it's about silencing someone who stood up against the regime for what is right.

12/ @EithanHaim deserves peace and the public deserves answers. Why are we here? Why does the government get away with such glaring failures in such a high-stakes case? And how low has the standard for US Attorneys fallen under the Biden administration?

Wherein the DOJ is prosecuting a doctor-whistleblower with frivolous “HIPPA violations” in retaliation for him exposing a secretive and fraudulent pediatric gender clinic (horror-movie stuff) at a Texas children’s hospital:

1: The DOJ attorney did not have a valid license to practice law.

2: The DOJ attorney is making up law and statutes in filings.

3: The DOJ attorney has no supporting case law.

4: The DOJ attorney apparently discovering evidence only ~30 days before scheduled trial.

This DOJ slop-prosecutor is Tina Ansari (pic attached). She should not be allowed to practice law, let alone as DOJ prosecutor.

They are doing this to send a message to anyone that thinks about whistleblowing on child-tranny operations.

@EithanHaim protected children's lives at personal risk and is a hero. He is defending this slop-prosecution, which isn't cheap and which most people can't afford.
